

External Endline Evaluation Syria

Stellenbeschreibung

arche noVa is an international aid organization based in Dresden, Germany. Ever since our inception in 1992, arche noVa has been supporting people who live in unstable environments, caused by crisis, conflicts or natural disasters. Whether in rapid-response emergency aid missions, rehabilitation/ reconstruction projects or long-term development cooperation projects, arche noVa works with local partners and involves the beneficiaries from the start, always following the organization's fundamental principle: helping people to help themselves.

arche noVa's main sectoral focus is WASH. We have extensive experience in diverse operational environments and have developed numerous customized solutions for urban and rural water systems. Even though WASH is our main expertise, arche noVa also work in various other sectors, such as education, food security, medical services and DRR. For detailed information on projects and approach, please visit our website www.arche-nova.org.

arche noVa has been active in Syria and scaling up since 2012. Projects have primarily focused on the North West (Aleppo and Idleb governorates) and since 2019 as well in NES. However, arche noVa has also been involved in emergency responses to flash displacements in Afrin, Kobane, Hama and rural Damascus.

arche noVa is currently looking for the acquisition of an External Evaluation Service.
